

March 1, 2015

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a pharmaceutical composition designed to adhere to a mucous membrane for preventing or treating radiotherapy-related and chemotherapy-related mucositis, induced by radiotherapy or combined radiochemotherapy, comprising an effective amount of an antiradical compound mixed with a vehicle, which is liquid at room temperature and gels at the mucous membrane temperature and capable of adhering to the mucous membrane by its gelled status.